

EXTREMELY DANGEROUS POLITICAL INFORMATION

(connecting the dots – politically defining eagles and turkeys)

With all due respect, please consider that most people fail to start at the most important documents in our history, the Declaration of Independence and the Definitive Treaty of Peace, 1783, (8 stat 80) when searching for the truth about our Republican Form of Government. You are encouraged to read the United States Supreme Court statements in Chisholm v. Georgia, 2 U.S. 419 (1793) concerning the root of the sovereignty in the United States.

In my research it has become very apparent, the early colonists were divided into two groups, one group wanted to be "free, sovereign and independent" while the other group wanted to remain loyal to the Crown of Great Britain.

The group who wanted to be "free, sovereign and independent" are mentioned as the "people of the United States" while the loyalists are mentioned as "inhabitants of the United States" and both are mentioned in the Definitive Treaty of Peace, 1783, (8 stat 80) specifically Article III therein.

The "people of the United States" then went on to write the Constitution of the United States for the United States of America, with its Preamble, minus its Amendments. The "inhabitants of the United States" had no participation in the Constitution, because they wanted to remain loyal to the Crown.

The supreme sovereigns of the United States, i.e. the "people of the United States" who are "free, sovereign and independent" wrote their offer in 1787 to the United States of America, in its agency capacity for both the Crown of Great Britain and the subjects thereof, known as, "inhabitants of the United States" to provide "essential governmental duties" to the "people of the United States" and gave the United States of America authority to administratively control the said "inhabitants of the United States," and that offer was accepted in 1789, (8 stat 80).

The three signatories to the said Definitive Treaty of Peace, 1783, were, the Crown of Great Britain, the United States of America, (8 stat 80) and the said United States, which acknowledged the states to be "free, sovereign and independent" states, that he treats with them as such, and for himself, his heirs, and successors, relinquishes all claims to the government, propriety, and territorial rights of the same and "every part thereof."

The Definitive Treaty of Peace, 1783, (8 stat 80) was in reality a commercial exchange, the Crown of Great Britain surrendered dominion over land and a people the Crown of Great Britain could not economically, legally or militarily maintain control over, in exchange for trade with and taxing power over the "inhabitants of the United States," through its Agent, the United States of America.

It is absolutely necessary to fully understand the difference between the "United States" and the "United States of America." The United States is the country, while the United States of America is the nation. The United States of America does not make laws for the United States, it only makes law for the "inhabitants of the United States" presumptively having a permanent residence/domicile in the District of Columbia.

When you read Article 1 of the said Definitive Treaty of Peace, 1783, (8 stat 80) you will note the Crown of Great Britain retained two positions for itself, the Arch Treasurer and the Prince Elector of the United States of America. The Crown retained control of the "public rights" of "inhabitants of the United States" in The United States of America, while it released the "private rights", when it acknowledged the states, as "free, sovereign and independent," and "every part thereof." With the United States of America Supreme Court in a Case titled, Karnuth v. United States of America, 279 U.S. 231 (1929) stated the Definitive Treaty of Peace, 1783, was as operative today as it was when it was first adopted in 1783.

In reality what happened in the Definitive Treaty of Peace, 1783, (8 stat 80) is, the United States of America became an agent of the Crown of Great Britain for two reasons; to provide "essential governmental duties" to the "free, sovereign and independent" "people of the United States;" and to provide administrative democratic control (mob rule) over the "inhabitants of the United States" for collecting taxes and forwarding the same to the Crown of Great Britain.

Texas v. White, 74 U.S. 700 (1868) states what a "state" consists of, "people, land, and the law/government." You don't have to be a rocket scientist to figure out which of the three named entities cares about being "free, sovereign and independent."

TODAY IN AMERICA, the United States of America, presumes everyone is an "inhabitant of the United States" until such time as an individual man or woman makes their own Declaration of Political Character and Status made as part of a claim for the said United States and made to the United States of America. The problem is, the average "person"/inhabitant has no idea about what I just explained to you.

HOW DID THIS HAPPEN? This transformation theft of the country happened in the government education system gradually over time, by not teaching our children the heritage of the said United States from the foundation of the country. Specifically as laid out in Chisholm v. Georgia, 2 U.S. 2 Dall. 419 419 (1793).

WHAT CAN BE DONE NOW TO RECOVER THE COUNTRY SPECIFICALLY MENTIONED HEREIN?

PLAN OF ACTION.

1. First, educate yourself concerning the documents from the foundation of the country and the founding of the nation.

2. Make your own personal declaration of your personal political character and status as was done in 1776.
3. Record your personal political declaration of your political character and status in your county Recorder's Records as a Notice to the Public.
4. Make your personal claim to the land of the United States and "every part thereof".
5. Record your personal claim to the land of the United State in the County Recorder's Records under a Notice to the Public.
6. Inform your government of your current political character and status and how, now, you are solving the conflict of laws doctrine, law of the land (lex loci) v. law of the forum (lex fori) for yourself.
